FREE ANIMAL CARE RECORD-KEEPING BOOKS AVAILABLE TO DAIRY FARMERS AND VETERINARIANS

More Than 6,600 Books Have Been Distributed to Date

Harrisburg, Pa. – This spring, the Center for Dairy Excellence is once again offering free copies of Animal Care Protocol Record-Keeping Books to Pennsylvania dairy producers and veterinarians. With more than 6,600 books distributed to date, they have been created to help Pennsylvania dairy farm families comply with National FARM requirements associated with record keeping. The latest version of the record-keeping books match FARM Version 5.0's standards related to animal care. One book should cover three program years for a smaller-sized herd. To request a free copy of the book, visit www.centerfordairyexcellence.org/request-book or call 717-788-0304.

“As you look at your dairy’s protocols this spring, it’s a great time to request a copy of this record-keeping book for your operation. These books have helped other producers establish a good system for managing animal care efforts and protocols,” said Valerie Mason-Faith, Risk Education Program Manager at the Center for Dairy Excellence. “Each book should hold three years of FARM records and the books even include a family cow care agreement, pages to help producers document standard operating procedures and treatments of their dairy animals, dry cow protocols, and more.”

In the last round of updates to the record-keeping books, the Center for Dairy Excellence made the following changes and additions:

- Each book should hold three years of FARM records.
- A dry cow protocol is added.
- Diarrhea is added to the list of common illnesses.
- Updated FARM 5.0 information is added to the colostrum and euthanasia sections.
- The treatment log is now one running log.
- A blank medication list is now included for farmers to complete with their veterinarians.
- The medication list from the FARM Drug Residue Prevention Manual is now included for reference.

“These books are a convenient way to keep track of treatments, and the included list of common medications and their withhold times is easy to reference. Basically, the book is simple but effective,” shared Derek, a PA dairy farmer who has used the resource.

To request a free copy of the Animal Care Protocol Record-Keeping Book, visit www.centerfordairyexcellence.org/request-book or call Allen Hess at 717-788-0304.

Veterinarians and consultants can order free copies of the books for their dairy clients, and dairy producers can order copies directly for their farm. Blank, fillable protocol sheets and additional record-keeping templates are available on the National FARM website at www.nationaldairyfarm.com/producer-resources/herd-health-and-protocols/. The National FARM Program also requires that any family or non-family employee have a record documenting training in stockmanship, calf care, non-ambulatory, euthanasia or fitness to transport.

“I personally love the books and have told my veterinarian about them when they sign. I keep a separate log for my cow records, but I keep this book in the front. I love that it has all the requirements for the FARM program listed, and it made it easier when our co-op did our FARM inspection,” said Maurica King, another dairy producer who has used the books.

The record-keeping books were compiled by the Center for Dairy Excellence, using resources from the National FARM Program, AllTech, the American Association of Bovine Practitioners, Mid-Maryland Dairy Veterinarians, and Valley Mobile Veterinary Services.

The National Dairy FARM Program: Farmers Assuring Responsible Management works to set the highest standards when it comes to animal care, workplace settings, and environmental and antibiotic stewardship. Created by the National Milk Producers Federation in partnership with Dairy Management Inc., FARM helps ensure the success of the entire industry by demonstrating that U.S. dairy farmers are committed to producing the best milk with integrity. FARM is open to all farms, milk processors and cooperatives and program components are guided by their respective advisory groups.
